GIRL SCOUTS HAVE REWARD PARTY

Girl Scout Troop No. 1 of Belle Glade, Florida, had a supper party at the hut on Wednesday, April 29.

The party opened with a rousing game of "Steal the Bacon" and, after some of the girls obtained firewood, a fire was made in the barbecue pit outside the hut. In the meantime the rest of the troop was having a good time playing games inside the hut; prizes of bubble gum were awarded.

All of the girls had brought steak, bacon and onions for supper and with a potato these were put on the stick, baked and enjoyed immensely. There was also hot chocolate, marshmallows and fruit.

The party was a reward for badge work done by the members of the troop and it had been completed in the previous three weeks was their accomplishment.

Also this occasion was used to give prizes to the two members of Troop No. 1 who of the members of their troop sold the most boxes of cookies in the recent drive. First prize went to Betty Ann Markham and second prize to Esther Friedheim.

A farewell gift was given to Donna Norris who will soon return north for the summer. Scouts enjoying the evening were Jackie Chaney, Kay Fears, Carolyn Eward, Catharine Friedman, Esther Friedheim, Betty Jean Harris, Lisa May Humphries, Elaine McCabe, Wanda Mackey, Betty Ann Markham, Glenda Poole, Jackie Royals, and Khaleah Vandewater.

Mrs. Harold Riedel and Miss Pay Leadbetter were the chaperones.

After more games and folk dances the party ended with tape and the girls went home tired but happy.

The Rev. Herman Dam, Supply Pastor of the Everglades Presbyterian Church will deliver the sermon and the public is invited to attend. It is especially hoped that a large crowd of the young people will accompany the Rainbow Girls.

Burford Prescott, veteran candidate for Constable for District eight, says, "If I have not personally seen each of the 2837 registered voters in the district, it's not because I have not been trying. There just isn't enough time."

Prescott feels "that the time I have spent in the Glades thru school and in working for and with farmers, handling labor, fill me for the job. I certainly know conditions in the area and know the need of the farmers from a labor standpoint."

"With a growing family and its needs the position means enough to me to insure my 100% attention. If the voters will elect me their Constable, I can assure them that no individual or group will dictate to me my actions. My official actions will be controlled by the laws under which I must work, and a humane consideration for the community and the individuals with whom I must deal."

The Herald's South Bay correspondent contributes this survey:

"The proposed $3,600,000 bond issue for the purpose of building and remodeling school buildings and equipment in Palm Beach County is apparently causing little comment in South Bay, possibly because the matter has not been presented to the attention of the general public other than through the newspaper accounts.

Well informed property owners are somewhat divided in their opinions. There seems to be a feeling that South Bay is not scheduled to receive much benefit from what is felt to be a tremendous expenditure of public funds.

Several property owners expressed the thought that taxes to death anyhow and he would rather it went to the schools than to any other cause.

One woman sagely remarked that the money would be better if a lot of this money appropriated for foreign relief were expended for the schools, for the aged and to care for our own people first and then and not until then help foreign countries to help themselves and not try to carry the whole world on our shoulders."

Of those who have given the only with buildings and equipment; but also by securing much better teachers and paying them higher salaries and the schools should be built up not by a general revitalizing of the school program to fit the needs of the pupils and train them for life and civic responsibility. One of the PTA officers expressed the thought that the bond issue seemed to be the best method of getting the necessary building program done with the least stain on the taxpayer as payments would be made over a period of years rather than by increasing the school taxes to cover the expenditure.

Changeover to Dial Instruments Begins

Telephone installers on May 3 begin exchanging dial instruments for the non-dial telephones now in use, in anticipation of the change to dial telephone service scheduled for sometime next winter. Changing telephone instruments in advance is being done so there will be no delay in converting to dial service when the new central office equipment is ready.

Advance notice as to when to begin dialing calls will be given. Meantime the dial telephones are to be used exactly like the non-dial instrument—lift the receiver and the operator answers. But be careful not to move the dial during a call as this will interrupt your conversation and may result in a "cut-off."

As a part of this expansion and improvement program, it will be necessary to change all telephone numbers. It is not practicable at this time to determine what your dial number will be, but a special directory will be published before the dial office is placed in service.

CANDIDATE SUTOR ENDS VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

In bringing to a close a vigorous campaign for county superintendent of public instruction this week end that has carried him to every nook and cranny of the county from Brown's Farm to Jupiter Inlet, Jack Sutor declared, "My chances look very good."

He continued, "I have received splendid support and the public reception has been most gratifying. I have seen everyone it was humanly possible to see. And if I have overlooked anyone it is simply because it was physically impossible for one man to cover so much ground."

In his final statement, the educator and editor, ran over his qualifications for the office of superintendent of public instruction.

He cited his training which includes a Master's degree from Duke University. He also called attention to his ten years of teaching in Florida schools. Half of that time he taught at Palm Beach High School. During the past three years, Sutor has been in the newspaper business in West Palm Beach.

Sutor explained that he has always worked for improved education in the state and the county.

"I was conspicuous in the effort for better teachers' salaries," he declared.

Sutor was elected to TIFP and the Post-Times and served as editor of the Palm Beach Sun. In the latter position he supported the Citizens Committee on the Education program, both editorially and on the stump.

"I also supported business progress, beach protection, Everglades roads, and water control," he explained.

"With that background I believe I can bring a broad view of county school problems to the superintendent's office," Sutor declared.

Summing up his platform, he pledged his cooperation with the patrons and the teachers of all the schools in the county. Sutor lives with his wife and children in West Palm Beach.

Window Crash Robbery At Glades Jewelers

A rather bold robbery took place on Avenue A when the show window of the Glades Jewelers, was crashed in by a rock and some $800 worth of merchandise swooped up and carried away by the perpetrators of the act.

City police assisted by deputy sheriffs Gibbs, Gray, and Jack Simmons began work on the case and in 30 hours had the case solved and the persons interested in the robbery in custody, and much of the stolen property recovered.

Those arrested in connection with the robbery are William Graham, Daisy White and William Gaston, all negroes. Graham and White were arrested in a local negro housing center, and Gaston at a farm near Canal Point. It is charged that Gaston was the actual operator of the burglary, and that he shared his pill with the other two defendants. The trio were taken to West Palm Beach to await court action.

This same store was burglarized two years ago, but by prompt action of the police, the robber and his stolen goods were apprehended and recovered.

FARMERS GAIN

Stoddard of the station faculty, who spoke on subjects related to their line of work. Dr. Allison, County Agent Mounts, Dr. T. L. Smith, of Davis, Cal., of the station there, and a number of visiting county agents, were introduced to the assemblage.

Each visitor was presented with a prepared digest of the subjects which were to be discussed, for future reading and study in a home work manner, and this information was very voluminous, covering most every subject which is involved in successful vegetable work, and sufficient data to keep one busy for many weeks. A digest of the main subjects discussed were as follows: Progress of Horticulture investigations during the past year, relating to bean, celery, potatoes, cabbage, lima beans, and corn. Fertilizer studies on the above named crops, disease controls on tomatoes and lettuce and pink rot on these same types; low gallonage sprays on truck crops, and effectiveness of insecticides, fertilizer placement, and spraying machinery.

Dr. Allison cited the extreme need of better equipment to carry on the work of the station, stating that what was possessed was old, antiquated and practically passe, and what new equipment had been secured, had to be changed to meet the requirements of use. With new machinery and supplies greater progress of the station would be forthcoming to the enurment of Florida farmers, Dr. Randolph had several specimens of recovered machinery on display.

Dr. Wade stated that the Ithica station was spending most of its experimentation on the developing of a new variety of bean, both as to color, production and resistance, as well as a market appeal, and were making considerable progress toward a new bean suitable for the southern state and Everglades region.

He held that the most successful bean, was one that was produced under soil and weath-ther conditions where it is to be planted, and that the local station is aiding the New York station, in its experimentation. Color is playing a big part in the selection of a bean for quick freezing, as many of the present type of beans do not show up good, and lighter shades had to be brought into the picture. To this end a Buff Valentine is being introduced by Logan, a new variety is now round type, is meeting with success.

Dr. Magruder, made many statements of interest on lima bean culture, and one was that experiments were "leading to the development of a lima, that could have a mid-winter harvest, meeting most of the contingencies in growth. He held that the house wife did not care much on the size and shape of a lima bean, because he said, it was the bean that they wanted, of a variety that would produce beans sufficient to pay for their price. His station was now favoring pole limas, and while a bit more expensive to cultivate, their advantages were greater than the vine beans. If lima beans do not germinate in 16 days, better plow up the ground, and begin over. A California strain, mostly for freezing, may aid the Glades.

Dr. Hofman in speaking of beans, stated that in his opinion, Florida Belle, Bountifuls and Plantula were the types which should be grown locally, but did not speak favorably of Tendergreens, as it was not a money producer for the growers. That the future success of the bean business, was the ability to produce methods which would cut down production costs, which is imperative.

Drs. Stoddard and Hayval spoke briefly of their experiments with fungicides and insecticides, which are matters of study for the farmers, under station supervision, according to the types being used for various conditions and eradication of the pest. The fact was brought out that two new celery worms had made their entry known in a destructive manner, and that farmers should take prompt action in inspecting fields. Also of a new mold of blight which is present, with its destructibility as yet undetermined, but which appears to be extensive.

These experts presented information pamphlet a number of tables showing results with various type of fertilizers, fungicides and insecticides. Observations on the Sclerotinia disease of vegetable crops, appears in the reports as follows:

For some years pathologists have been puzzled at the behavior of the fungus Sclerotinia sclerotiorum which causes pink rot of celery, lettuce drop, white mold on beans, and the sclerotinia diseases of tomatoes and potatoes. These diseases have been prevalent and destructive in the growing areas of Sanford, the East Coast particularly in the Fort Lauderdale-Pompano section, and around Homestead. The organism is spread from field to field by wind-blown spores and theoretically, should have had ample opportunity to infect the Lake area. However, very little infection has been observed up to the present season. Small outbreaks of the disease were noted in the 1944-45 season on a few peppers at Canal Point, in the 1945-46 season on celery and carrots in the Belle Glade area and again on celery in the 1947-48 season. A report that a field of beans on Route 25 was heavily attacked by the fungus in the 1946-47 season was not officially confirmed.

This year the same field of celery near Belle Glade had an appreciable amount of pink rot during the month of February. At the same time a considerable acreage of lettuce near Moore Haven was found to be infested and the owner of the farm suffered a substantial loss. When pink rot was found on another celery farm near Belle Glade, the situation took on a more serious aspect and it was decided to make a survey of the entire Glades to determine the extent of the infestation. The results of this survey show that the disease is widespread. Fourteen farms were inspected and the fungus was found attacking either celery or lettuce on every farm. This raises a serious threat for the years to come. It is not anticipated that the disease will become serious every year but undoubtedly there will be seasons when, under conditions being favorable, it will be a limiting factor on many farms. Unfortunately, there are few measures of control which can be recommended at the present time. There are no fungicides which can be effectively used and we have no resistant varieties. The fungus forms large, tough, resting bodies known as sclerotia which can live over in the soil for 20 years or more. These can be destroyed by flooding the soil for at least three weeks according to our present knowledge. Experiments will be conducted this summer to further check on this point. As the disease also attacks numerous weeds, the common ragweed is one of the most susceptible, ditch banks should be kept as clean as possible.

The Experiment Station is fully aware of the potential menace of this disease and a program of research will be initiated this summer with the view of finding improved methods of control. As new information is available it will be passed on to all growers. In the meantime the cooperation of all who are interested in the control of the disease is solicited in reporting immediately to the plant pathologist outbreaks of it in their crops. This will provide valuable information on temperature and moisture relationships required by the organism for growth and infection. The cattle day will be an event of late May.

Rather than enumerate every phase of his background, we have chosen the following subject since it illustrates so clearly his ability.

Louis Bills entered the Air Corp in 1918 as a private after graduating from Holmes College in Winter Park, Fla., where he majored in Business Administration. He served his country throughout the War and was mustered out as a 1st Colonel in the AAF, in which he served as a squadron Commander and organizing head of many groups. His superiors recognized and rewarded his true ability.

Now, Louis B. Bills is ready to serve you with the same fidelity and ability.

South Bay Commission Now Ready To Start Water Project

Mayor William Jeffries and his city council of South Bay are wearing a very satisfactory smile these days, for by action of the courts, the proposed issue of bonds for the Town's water work system has been validated. This program has been recorded. Bonds authorized and validated; contract made with the Boyce Company, of Clearwater, for the building of the system; contract entered into with the City of Belle Glade for the supply of treated water for domestic and fire hydrant use, and a goodly number of water subscribers for the system."

Contractor Boyce for some time has been securing his equipment and materials for the work he is to do but, just how soon he can get started has not been announced, but within a short time.

South Bay officials have been working on this important project for several years, and to see it furthered by successful steps, is most gratifying to them and future customers. From the addition of the water system, additional growth and industry is sure to come to the town on the south end of the bay.

Mrs. John Pugh of Kissimmee, candidate for delegate at large to the National Democratic Convention, is unveiled. If elected, she plans to devote her organizational ability and her energy at the convention, to nominate a Democratic Presidential Candidate who can merge the various factions under the banner of state's rights; that the Democratic party may present a solid united front at the November elections.

North China Missionary Address Missionary Club At South Bay

The South Bay W. N. U. had an unexpected pleasure Thursday afternoon at their regular meeting when Miss Lillian Greer, cousin of Ned Greer, spoke on her 30 years work as missionary in North China, the last 2 1/2 years of which were under the difficulties of carrying on under the Japanese Occupation Forces in China.

She was sent home by the Japanese after hostilities broke out with the United States, arriving home on the first exchange trip of the Gripsholm which carried 400 missionaries among her passengers.

Her home is at Beaver, Oklahoma but she has both visiting her uncle, Walter Greer, and Aunt Rena Hankins in Belle Glade. A friend, Mrs. Ava Anglin of Chicago, who with her late husband was in charge of an orphanage in the Province of Shantung, is also a house guest of the Greers. The Anglins have also been for more than 20 years in China and Mrs. Anglin was a prisoner in a Japanese Concentration Camp until the close of hostilities and lost her husband during that time.

Miss Greer pointed out that the Boxer Rebellion in China, which had for its prime motive the driving out of all foreigners from China, really gave the Christian Church in China a great impetus as the church has always thrived on persecution and so it emerged from the Boxer Rebellion a strong and growing church.

Her church in China has been entirely self supporting and had given her full financial support from 1933 up to the time she was sent home in 1942. Five hundred to six hundred persons attended every service, she said, and often 100, especially with the near approach of the Japanese to their province. Her great work she said was to train leaders of native Christians who then went out among their people to spread Christianity and build new churches. More than 100 missionaries of trained native workers have gone out from her church alone and now that she is away from them the native Christians are carrying on her work. She hopes soon to be able to return to them and to her work. Many of the Japanese army became Christians when they came in contact with the work of the Christian missionaries in China, she stated.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. W. W. Jeffries. Reports were heard of recent district meetings attended by delegates from this group and from the program chairman, who pled with the members to take more interest in giving every assistance with the program.

It was decided to change the meeting day from Tuesday to Thursday to accommodate several members who were unable to attend on Tuesday. The next meeting will be on the first Thursday after the first Monday in May which falls on May 6.

Guests from Belle Glade were Mrs. Otis Hayes, Mrs. Rena Hankins and Mrs. Alan Greer. Others attending were Rev. and Mrs. B. A. Oswald, Mrs. L. L. Simmons, Mrs. T. E. Weathers, Mrs. F. W. Mulchler, Mrs. J. E. Henderson, Mrs. A. Lamoureux, Mrs. G. J. Barstow, Mrs. E. E. Dasher, Mrs. R. A. Hall, Mrs. Maude Hartline, Mrs. Jack Waters, Mrs. R. B. Woodham, Mrs. E. E.
